FELICIA

Sweet daisy-like blue blooms last mid-summer through fall. Plant these low maintenance plants in part sun.

GOMPHRENA - FIREWORKS

Reaching nearly 2 feet wide and 4 feet tall, this variety of gomprena thrives in full sun landscape beds and displays large pom-pom flowers from early summer through late fall.

SALVIA FARINACEA - BLUE

Also known as mealycup sage, these early bloomers will last through the first freeze. Plant in part to full sun and watch them spread to 18" wide and 18" tall.

SALVIA SPLENDENS - RED

Use in garden beds, containers, or borders. As long as they have sun and well-drained soil they are happy. Bees, butterflies, and hummingbirds flock to the colorful spikes while deer tend to pass them by.

You'll receive one of the following varieties in a 6" pot.

Sol Shine

Landscape Kalanchoe <sup>TM</sup>

Sol Shine Landscape Kalanchoes have brightly colored, long lasting blooms available in a wide range of colors. They're well-adapted to warm climates and are ideal for adding color to landscapes, flowerbeds, and potted arrangements. They make excellent border plants along walks and in raised beds. Glossy green leaves turn red in full sun.

Sol Shine Kalanchoes thrive in partly sunny environments but they can also be planted in shady spots that receive filtered light or part-day sun. They should be planted in well drained soil and be fertilized once per season.

Water needs are low to moderate and the plants should be watered once the soil surface has started to dry. Avoid overwatering and soggy roots/soil. Cut back spent blooms for a second flush.
